Dear Dr. Pilder:

In response to your recent inquiry, I must advise you that The Council for Tobacco Research does not maintain a fellowship program as such, but awards project grants to support independent studies by faculty-level scientists in universities, hospitals, and research institutions. However, our awards very often do include monies to pay research associates. You may wish to bring our program to the attention of your mentor who in turn may apply to us for support.

I am taking the liberty of including the information we send to investigators who inquire about our program of project grant support.

Sincerely,

Harmon McAllister
